Project Description

This project is still in development but it will focus on various aspects of artificial intelligence policy, law and values. This could range from a survey of what countries are doing in AI, what their policies are, and what this means for the US; to an exploration of issues around job displacement, bias, or the future of trust. The project will be heavily research based so we're looking for interns who are studious, detail oriented and good writers. Outcomes will help drive AI policy for the Department and the interagency.
